LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL • MANITOWOC, WISCONSIN

The Spirit of Lincoln

The Flambeau staff is proud to present as the theme of your 1958 yearbook "The Spirit of Lincoln" . . .

A nameless thing, a spirit, something intangible, but always there, drawn up into your life . . . in your school . . .

Lincoln . . . in the classroom . . . in the hall . . . from the tower . . . on the campus . . . throughout the city . . .

. . . a part of you is Lincoln and will always be . . . a feeling of pride as you hear the "Alma Mater" and say to yourself, "I went there" . . .

Your School, Your Life,

Couples coming and going are a familiar sight in the halls and around the campus of Lincoln.

THERE IS A tower atop a red brick building that casts a shadow on the bowl below. This is Lincoln.

But there is more to a school than a campus and a silhouette against the sky—and that is you, the student. This is the spirit of Lincoln.

For many, there may be no realization of the feeling that catches up each activity and wields them into a moving body. The cheering at the pep rallies and the shouts and screams as the team takes the floor—these contribute in their ways, but there is more, much more . . .

A hasty glance at one another as a boy and a girl walk down the hall . . .

The groans as the kids read the weekly menu . . .

Piles of jumbled notes accumulated for term papers . . .

Beards grown in hopes of a win . . .

Waving Confederate flags at the exchangees . . .

Frantically signing Flambeaus at the library . . .

ABOVE, Football players allow a lucky senior girls to examine the beards which they sprouted until they won their first game.

LEFT, Spring sometimes finds the slopes and steps almost deserted. On particularly warm days, students head for the lake and a cool breeze.

Joined Together

THE LITTLE everyday things, a thousand and one of them, insignificant in themselves, but together bringing a harmony, a union.

And over all, looking down at things from the paintings on the three floors, is Lincoln himself, seeing, in the bits and pieces of life that pass daily below, the qualities that made him great. Humor, ambition, loyalty, honesty and faith go into a student and remain with him throughout life, only to be repeated in his children and his children's children.

It takes a while to realize that this invisible something is a part of you, of your life at Lincoln. Perhaps it may come some night as you drive past the school on your way to Late's and look at the soft lights outlining the tower against the sky or perhaps as from this same tower, come the mellow notes of "Taps" and you get an uncomfortable feeling in your throat as you think, "It's all over."

But it isn't over, not really. Someday in the distant future you will sit back and remember how you decorated Lincoln's picture with crepe paper on Red-White day and how you grumbled at having to learn the the Gettysburg address, and you'll feel good.

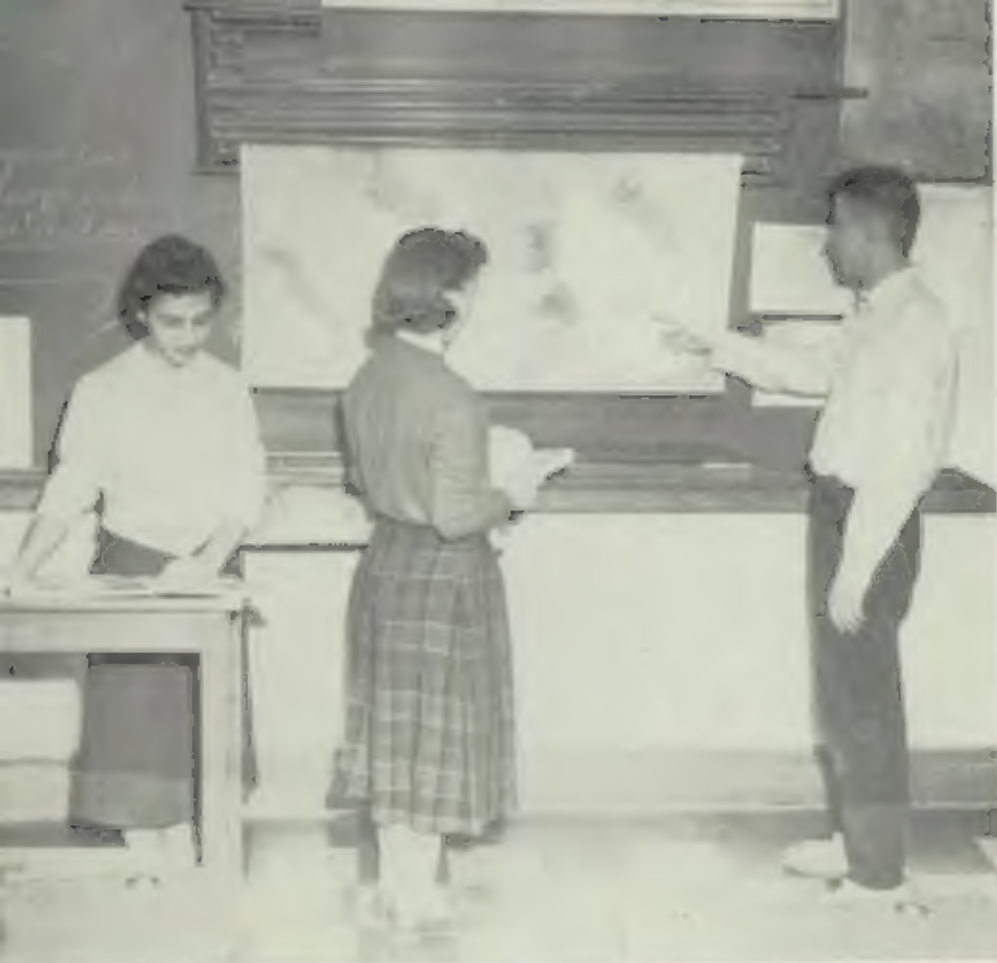

Crowds cheered and shouted as they welcomed the "Belles and Beaus" from Arlington, Virginia.

The annual College Day introduced juniors and seniors to various colleges and concepts of life there.

Tradition prevailed as the students took over the library grounds on "Flambeau-signing night."

World history students learn that history also needs some knowledge of geography and map-reading.

CLASSES are the backbone of Lincoln High, the core around which the entire school revolves.

Here, as you walk through the halls, you hear the low hum that choruses from each floor, broken at times by a wave of laughter as perhaps someone misquotes Chaucer or sees his eye through the microscope.

Then the shrill buzz of the bell brings bedlam and students tear out of rooms as if their very lives depended on the next three minutes.

A boy races past, muttering "amo, amas, amat, amamus . . .", and a girl "H2O . . .", and yet another group discussing the geometrical theorems in the very same breath with prom dates.

And they gather in knowledge and digest it, enabling them to go on to bigger and better things.

Active Minds

A little head-scratching enters the scene as some pupils wish Latin were 'really' dead.

Former fears forgotten, sophomores girls discover that a biology dissection is interesting and informative.

Shakespeare, as read aloud by these English students, becomes alive and leads to better understanding.

Chemistry students become accustomed to smells and soon enjoy preparing and analyzing various gases and compounds.

Meet Challenges

"How Do You Speak to an Angle?" might well be an excellent theme song for geometry classes, but with expert guidance, pupils soon find the answer for themselves.

Here Ability

You never know what to expect from the cooking classes, cake, bread, cookies or a full-course dinner, but no matter what, everything is good to the last crumb

Busy fingers fly, constantly striving for higher scores.

The girls in the sewing courses produce many of the articles that they wear in school.

Students with artistic inclinations find the varied activities of the art classes satisfying.

Counts Most

IN A SCHOOL such as this, the student body is everywhere. In the classroom, in the hallway, in the cafeteria, in the gymnasium, in the library, in the auditorium, in the shop, in the home economics room, in the art department, in the music room, in the science room, in the health room, in the physical education room, in the swimming pool, in the tennis courts, in the baseball field, in the football field, in the track, in the playground, in the schoolyard, in the school grounds, in the school building, in the school campus, in the school community, in the school world, in the school universe, in the school everything, in the school everywhere.

At the same time someone may be giving a speech concerning the atomic theory, or the speech arts, or another coming out with a golden loaf of bread, or a home economics class.

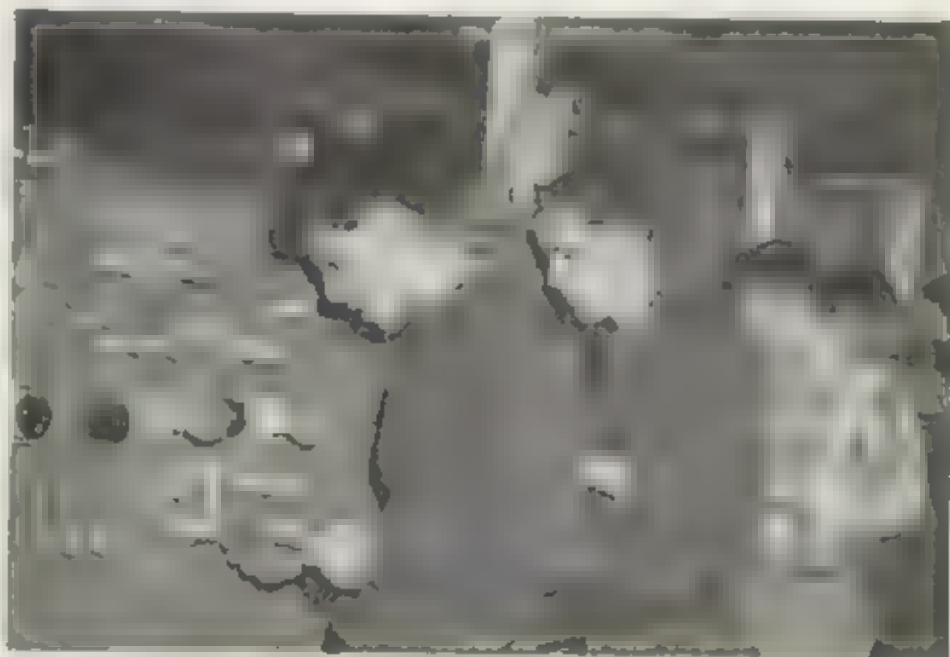

If you have a warm coat and don't mind a little chilly weather, you could trek down to the shops and watch future electricians and mechanics. They will be working on cars, and you may see some expert car jacking in the parking lot.

And if you are interested in the art department, some of them are playing off beat, but they sell, and it's the students who buy them.

The proper methods of giving speeches are demonstrated to the class by speech arts students.

Learning how to complete a circuit is only one of the many skills taught in electricity classes.

Various parts of an automobile are taken apart and examined by members of auto mechanics.

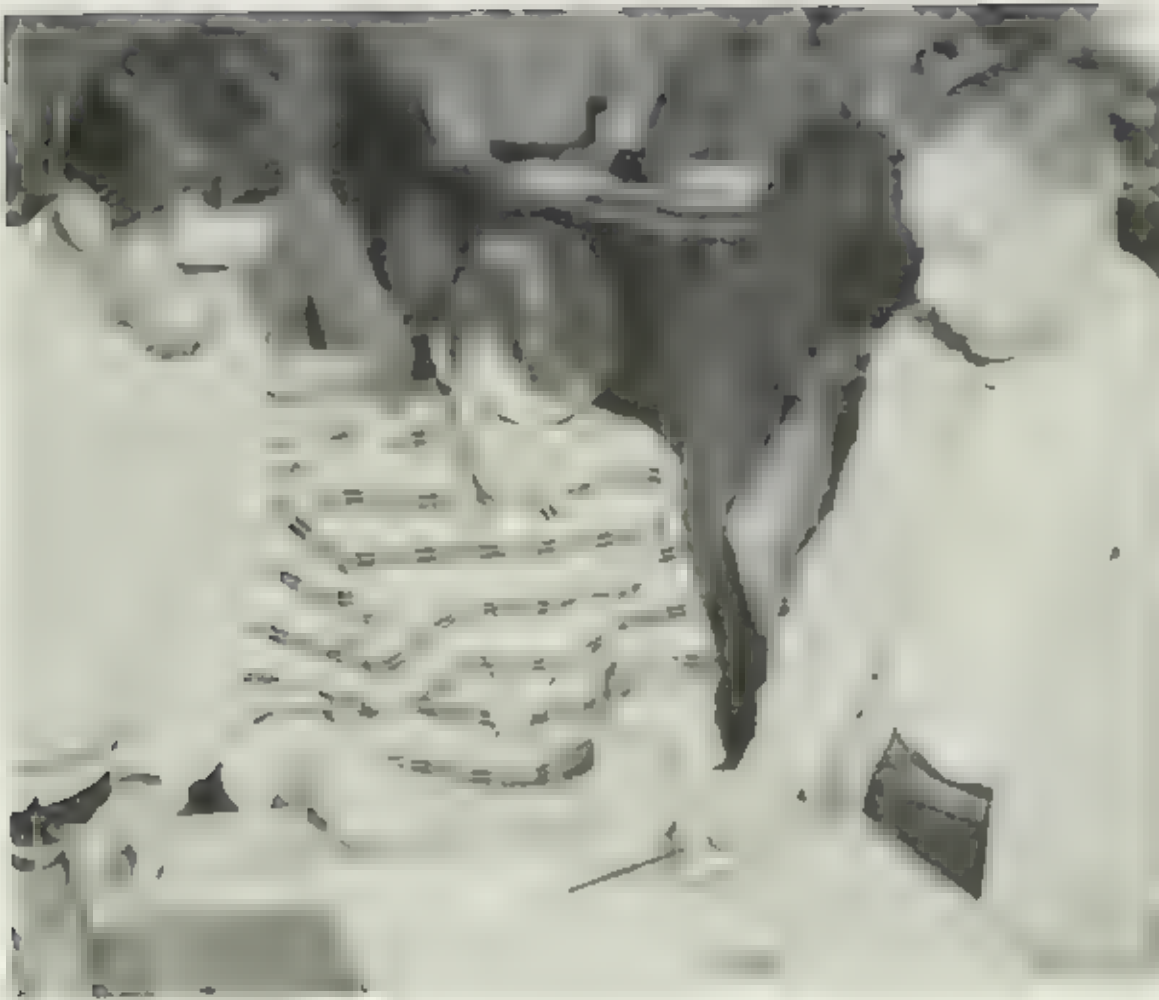

Minds and

THEN THERE are the body and spirit

A little exercise never hurt anyone and it is the motto of the physical education department. You may have noticed the students in the gymnasium at the corner of the street.

For those who like to blow their own horn there is band, and although some pretty strange sounds emit from the band room at times, they look and sound wonderful in public.

The rest of the day is spent in the seventh period. Friday is better yet. Then, on one hand, the voices of the chorus sing, "The Lord Bless You and keep You."

Boys taking drafting learn the fundamentals of blueprinting as well as the basic principles of complex mechanical objects.

All is not work in the girls physical education classes. Besides learning various sports and basic health rules, time is taken to enable the students to show off balancing skills.

Chorus members spend many extra hours around the piano perfecting solos and group numbers in order to earn honors at music festivals and to present the well-received programs to the students.

Bodies Are Stimulated

Lincoln students take full advantage of the library's modern facilities. Whether working on term papers, assignments, or just reading one of the many new magazines and books, the library provides just the right atmosphere.

ABOVE, Members of the band gather in the band room in spare hours, preparing numbers with the help of the band director, Mr. Conrad Daellenbach.

RIGHT, Physical education enables Lincoln's boys to display athletic ability and work developing these skills.

Expanding Horizons

EXPANDING HORIZONS is a proved valuable experience for Lincoln School. Students gain knowledge of the habits and customs of other parts of the world as well as an appreciation of their own and a widened outlook on life.

The AFS program has been successful in bringing students from France and Switzerland and sent a Lincoln student to Greece for the summer.

Trees for Tomorrow features an environmental-in-action program at the camp held annually at Eagle River. Manitowish students along with students from other parts of the state will participate in preservation work.

Recently, Lincoln students returned from the last lap of the seventh student exchange. This year the exchange was with Arlington, Va.

Mac Lillywhite shows off for his fellow exchangees, Bill Wallace, Judy Spangenberg, Mary Merrill and Will Hamp.

Going up! It looks like some lucky senior succeeded in selling elevator tickets to Arlington exchangees Al Swan, Woody Vaughan, Linda Littman, Adele Sitkin, Will Hamp, Mac Lillywhite and Jenny Miskell.

Oops! Wrong door! Mary Merrill seems to be amused by what could prove to be an embarrassing situation for exchangee Woody Vaughan.

Ida Boisten, Arlington exchangee from Denmark, entertains Will Hemp, Jane Reynolds, Jeanne Sands, Louise Andrews, Gunter Hemplemann and Ginny Robertson.

Studying is something that has to be done in Wisconsin as well as in Virginia, as Arlingtonites Jeanne Sands, Grayson Sanders, and Ginny Robertson soon discovered.

"Little Generals" Grayson Sanders, Bill Weaver and Judy Spangenberg found that Lincoln went all-out to greet them.

Council Meets

PARTYING at the dance was a great success. The Student Council during the year. Several committee members worked hard to make the night and courts for the students to enjoy.

A very successful year was soared with a total of $1,000.00. This year the price of tickets was raised because of increased public interest. For the first time, more tickets were sold than there were auditorium seats. The tickets were sold for $5.75 each. The money was used for various projects and for the year.

A meeting was held December 9-16. The meeting was held in the school posters and other projects to the litterbug problem.

Leadership Honored

OVER 75 boys from Wisconsin met at the annual Badger Boys' State held last June at Ripon College. Among them were five boys representing Manitowoc. A faculty committee chose a group of eligible junior boys and submitted the names to the American Legion. The American Legion selected the boys who attended.

At Badger Boys' State the representatives were taught the function of state, county and municipal government. The Legion sponsors Boys' State but individual boys are financed by service clubs of the city. The Teens Against Polio campaign was undertaken by Badger Boys this year.

Extensive reading will play an important part in the success of the students taking the National Merit Scholarship examination. Three Lincoln students passed the qualifying test and will compete with students throughout the country for the scholarship which is offered.

LYNN FISHBECK was voted this year's recipient of the annual DAR award presented by the Daughters of the American Revolution. The voting was done by seniors in the problems of democracy classes. Lynn was entered in the petition for state honors during the spring.

In her junior year Joyce Muehlberg was selected by the faculty scholarship committee to represent Lincoln at Badger Girls' Camp. Joyce was chosen on the basis of her school citizenship, scholarship and leadership abilities.

Working to Bring

POPULAR SONGS provided themes for numerous little ditties composed by the members of the Manitou staff. The "Manitooters", as they were known presented their advertisements during homeroom but preferred to remain anonymous for various reasons, the least of which was lack of melody. Some low volume petered out before the end of each tune.

Nevertheless, students compiled with stacks of literary material, gave the staff the job of sorting, judging and editing, in time for the February issue.

February's entries brought more worries until the second volume reached the students in May.

Fact and Fiction

WAS THERE any one who didn't hear about the green Flambeau? It wasn't the staff's fault. A rumor spread quickly through the halls with little help from the staff.

Small groups of students and teachers could be seen walking through the halls during the day.

There were many surprises when the Flambeau did come out during the competition and the staff was able to handle it.

NEWs THAT occurred on and around Lincoln's campus were brought to the students by the Hi-Tower flashes staff. The many seventh hours spent among the typewriters and newsprint produced both fact and interest for the reader.

Spent in Tower

"PICTURE, PICTURE, who's got the picture?" was a phrase well-used by the boys of the second floor darkroom. Pictures and negatives seemed to have had a funny way of disappearing, getting lost or happening to dissolve to a nothingless blob in the fix. It must have been gremlins, everyone said, or sophomores said the older ones

On the Scene

TEN FIFTY was quite an early start for Saturday mornings for some people, but for some it was an opportunity to get to the on the scene of the Lincoln Log.

As a result of what was happening in the studio, the Lincoln Log had technicians, scripts and a live broadcast and recording.

The staff presented selected music to the audience during the fourth and fifth hour lunch periods. A few complaints were voiced when semiclassical tunes played from the loudspeakers, but most people agreed it was good music.

of Lincoln's Life

"VARIETIES '58", after an absence of one year, was presented in Lincoln's auditorium March 27 and 29. The show, a complete sellout, was directed by Mr. George Kanzelberger.

Talent in the show was provided by a "No Biz' kickline, slumber kickline, duets and vocals, Charleston, a square dance, trampoline act and a folk dance were only a few of the many acts. There are too many to mention or to picture in the limited space.

Much of the success of the show can be contributed to the efforts of the stage crew, which handled the lighting, and the auditorium committee, which took care of the publicity and the business.

LITTLE BUTTERCUP, a new musical for Gilbert and Sullivan, opened at the "H. M. S. P. O.", October 17, at the Washington Department of the Navy.

Due to the dreaded flu bug, many changes were made on both evening performances. The large number of absentees from the orchestra and chorus didn't prevent the show from going on, however, several last minute changes had to be made because of the flu.

Brian Eisner filled in for David L. Smith on Thursday, and on Saturday evening Mr. W. J. Madison over as director for Mr. John C. Cerkas, who played the part of one of the sailors. The show was a great success and the cast was well received.

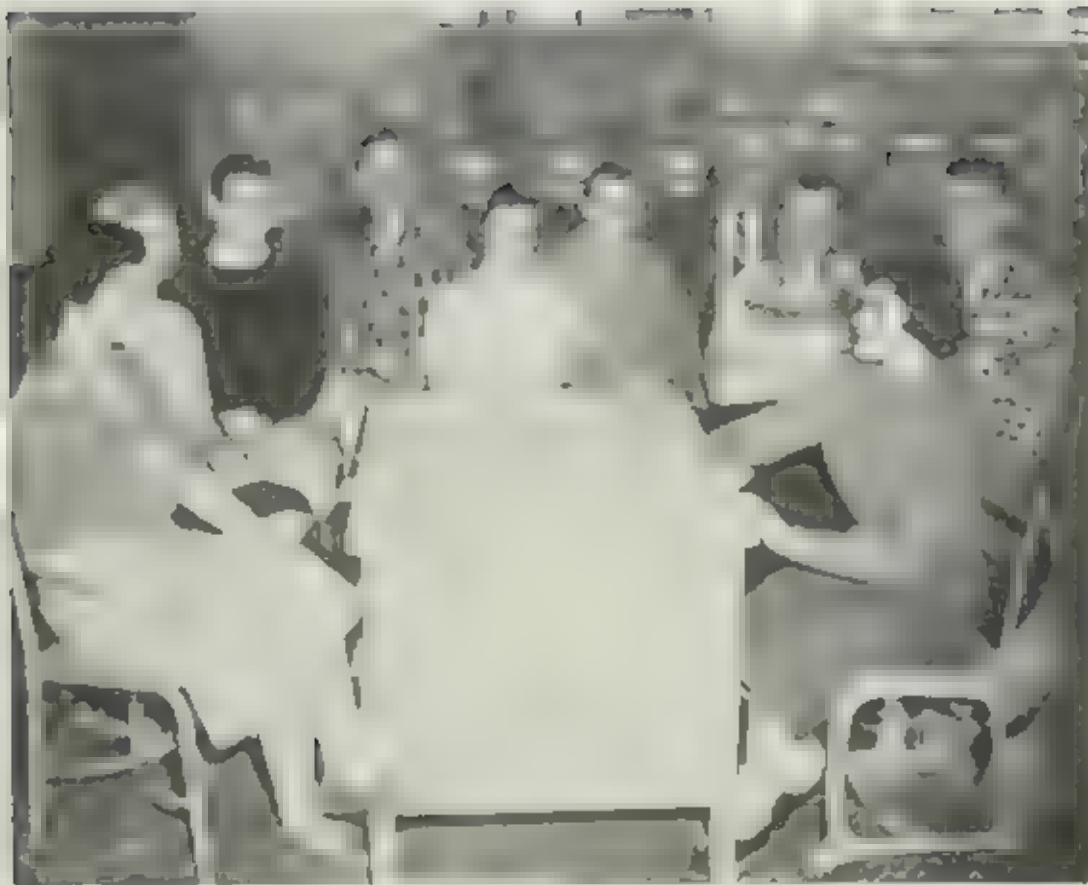

Mr. W. J. Madison, who had been in the show for some time, was directed by Mr. Frank N. Smith, director of dialogue. Our Voices

DURING THE YEAR some 30 voices were heard coming from the chorus room during fourth hour. The chorus members started their year with the operetta The H. M. S. Pinafore. During the drab winter months the chorus opened our hearts with Christmas. Taking part in the Lincoln-Mary winter concert was another chance noted by the chorus. On Friday at the home of the day the chorus sang their protection prayer.

Taking on the role of selling pennants promoted school spirit and raised finance their trip to Madison. The chorus met this year with their popular exette. They were so well liked that at one performance the Lincoln students used part of their noon hour to hear them.

Accompanying chorus members as they sang solos or gave the school-wide presentations are, sitting, Carol Lappen and Bette Ohlhues standing.

The Music Went

LONGHORNS played for the band members, heard from the rich, full strain heard by the audiences at the pep skit, homecoming and the football and basketball games.

In order that all members could play at game time, a system was worked up by Mr. Conrad to let each band member play one or more instruments. Members were either assigned to a white band or a black band to play at different times.

Adding to the excitement was the performance at the homecoming dance by the band. Members played and sang, and the dedication of the new Green Bay High School Stadium.

of Fair Play

THE GAA meets every week to plan the sports program. The girls, under the leadership of the teachers, start practicing the sports in the gym. When the weather is colder, GAA goes to the outdoor sports field. Chinese chess, volleyball and basketball nets are put up and the girls start playing. After volleyball comes the basketball throw contest.

When school comes, the girls practice the sports speed and accuracy. After school, the girls get up and the girls, under the leadership of the teachers start practicing the sports. When the weather is colder, GAA goes to the outdoor sports field. Chinese chess, volleyball and basketball nets are put up and the girls start playing. After volleyball comes the basketball throw contest.

At the first meeting, the girls practice the sports and bat are handed out to the girls. The girls and the GAA version of the sports are practiced in the gym. As the weather is colder, the girls practice the sports shot put, discus and dashes are discovered and many gym suited figures can be seen practicing through the half-mile.

All these sports are under the leadership of the sportheads, girls who are in charge of the sports and schedules, with the help of the teachers.

Girls receive awards. For 500 points in GAA a girl receives a triangle. When a girl receives 1000 points she receives a pin. After 1500 points more time the girl that obtains 1500 points is given a pin.

These numbers had been previously used in the pageants. The remaining meetings the girls began to work on next year's pageant, working for perfection.

ENTHUSIASM and a big turnout for the Lincoln's Pep Club in action. "Red-White" was the big theme on that long night when we all wear our red and white. Homecoming was another one of the big events.

Hand designed homecoming buttons were an added attraction this year, with a Lincoln design on a red badge. Pep skits were presented in the auditorium the night before Homecoming, and the homecoming again traditional. The pep assembly was presided by Mr. Newton.

Some of the subjects worked on during the year by the members were electronics, interstellar travel and the development of a number system based on fives. Other activities included films and a field trip.

TENNIS CLUB was open to both boys and girls who were interested in learning the correct rules of tennis. The chief goal of everyone in this club was to get his umpire cards. In order to do this, each person had to pass five tests of fifty questions each, and get at least 90 per cent of them correct. They are then qualified as United States Lawn Tennis Association umpires and receive their umpire cards. All members of the tennis team must belong to Tennis Club

It was a disappointment taking only a few days in your life for ming activities and a week upon the top of a stone in the very near future.

But when you brought a wave of but for the first of Red-White Day, your ceiling was the top and only one as you turned to the left. In the end, the day was the day.

You started your big year by rock n roll at the annual fresh men mixer. You participated in the annual Red-White Day your first Flambeau and you were ready for your junior year.

Sophs soon learned to give the proper respect due the honorable seniors. Here Pat Torgerson, sophomore, bows to senior Nan Reinke.

MIDDLE—Decorations, publications and invitations committee were Laurie Sheehy, sitting, Roy Toltzmann, John Alt, and Doris Peterson, standing; Bonnie Waack, sitting.

The 1957 Prom, "The Loveliest Night of the Year" featured the Grand March led by Queen Pat and King Duane.

Seated, David Wiegand, clean up. Standing, John Lowry, clean up; Ann Rieck and Allan Koritzinski, music and intermission.

Lee Kadow was General Chairman for "It's Almost Paradise."

A Pastel Paradise

AMID THE splendor of "It's Almost Paradise", King Allan Schelfhout crowned JoAnn Grall Queen of the 1958 Prom.

Couples danced to the music of Bob Mlada Orchestra in a pastel world of lavender. All tints and shades of the color dominated the scene, even to the punch, which was served by the fresh man girls, between spires of castle.

The walls depicted bridge spanning ponds, fountains sprayed gleaming water under weeping willow and poplar. The ceiling was illuminated by lights hanging from the ceiling.

General chairman, Lee Kadow, worked with her committees and class advisers Miss Joanne Fritz and Mr. Courtney Leonard contributed greatly to making the 1958 Prom a Paradise.

RIGHT—King Allan Schelfhout and Queen JoAnne Grall reigned over the 1958 Prom, in honor of the seniors. "It's Almost Paradise."

It's All Over!

YOUR SECOND year at Lincoln went by quickly, perhaps too quickly for some. Now that you have time to sit back and think, aren't there quite a few things you'd like to do over and more that you'd like to accomplish?

You came up with some terrific ideas. Homecoming showed ingenuity and a glance into the future with the shining rocket and out-of-this-world music. Second floor became a Wild Cat Alley as you painted and drew for Red-White Day. Silhouettes of your varsity players decorated the north of your second floor hall.

Transforming the gym into another world was difficult but fun as King Allen and Queen JoAnn danced amid the decorations of "It's Almost Paradise."

Yes, your second year was fun, but next year will be even greater as you reach the top as seniors.

Class advisers Courtney Leonard and Joanne Fritz are seen going over last minute preparations for the 1958 Prom, "It's Almost Paradise."

The senior float, "Dog-gone We're Gonna Win," helped seniors cop first place honors in class competition.

Dog-gone, We Did Win!

AFTER TWO DAYS OF VIGILANT WATCHING, THE CLASS OF 1951 finally came through with a first place for their float Homecoming at Lake Umbagog.

The class president's home was the scene of furious activity for two weeks preceding the big day. Flour-paste, crepe paper, a raccoon coat, a dog house and a fabulous head went into the float. "Dog-gone We're Gonna Win" beat a never-ending and the junior class made competition stiff.

Despite the asiatic flu and the cold weather, the school turned out full force to watch the Ships wallop the top-ranking Indians, 14-0, and gain a chance at the FRV crown!

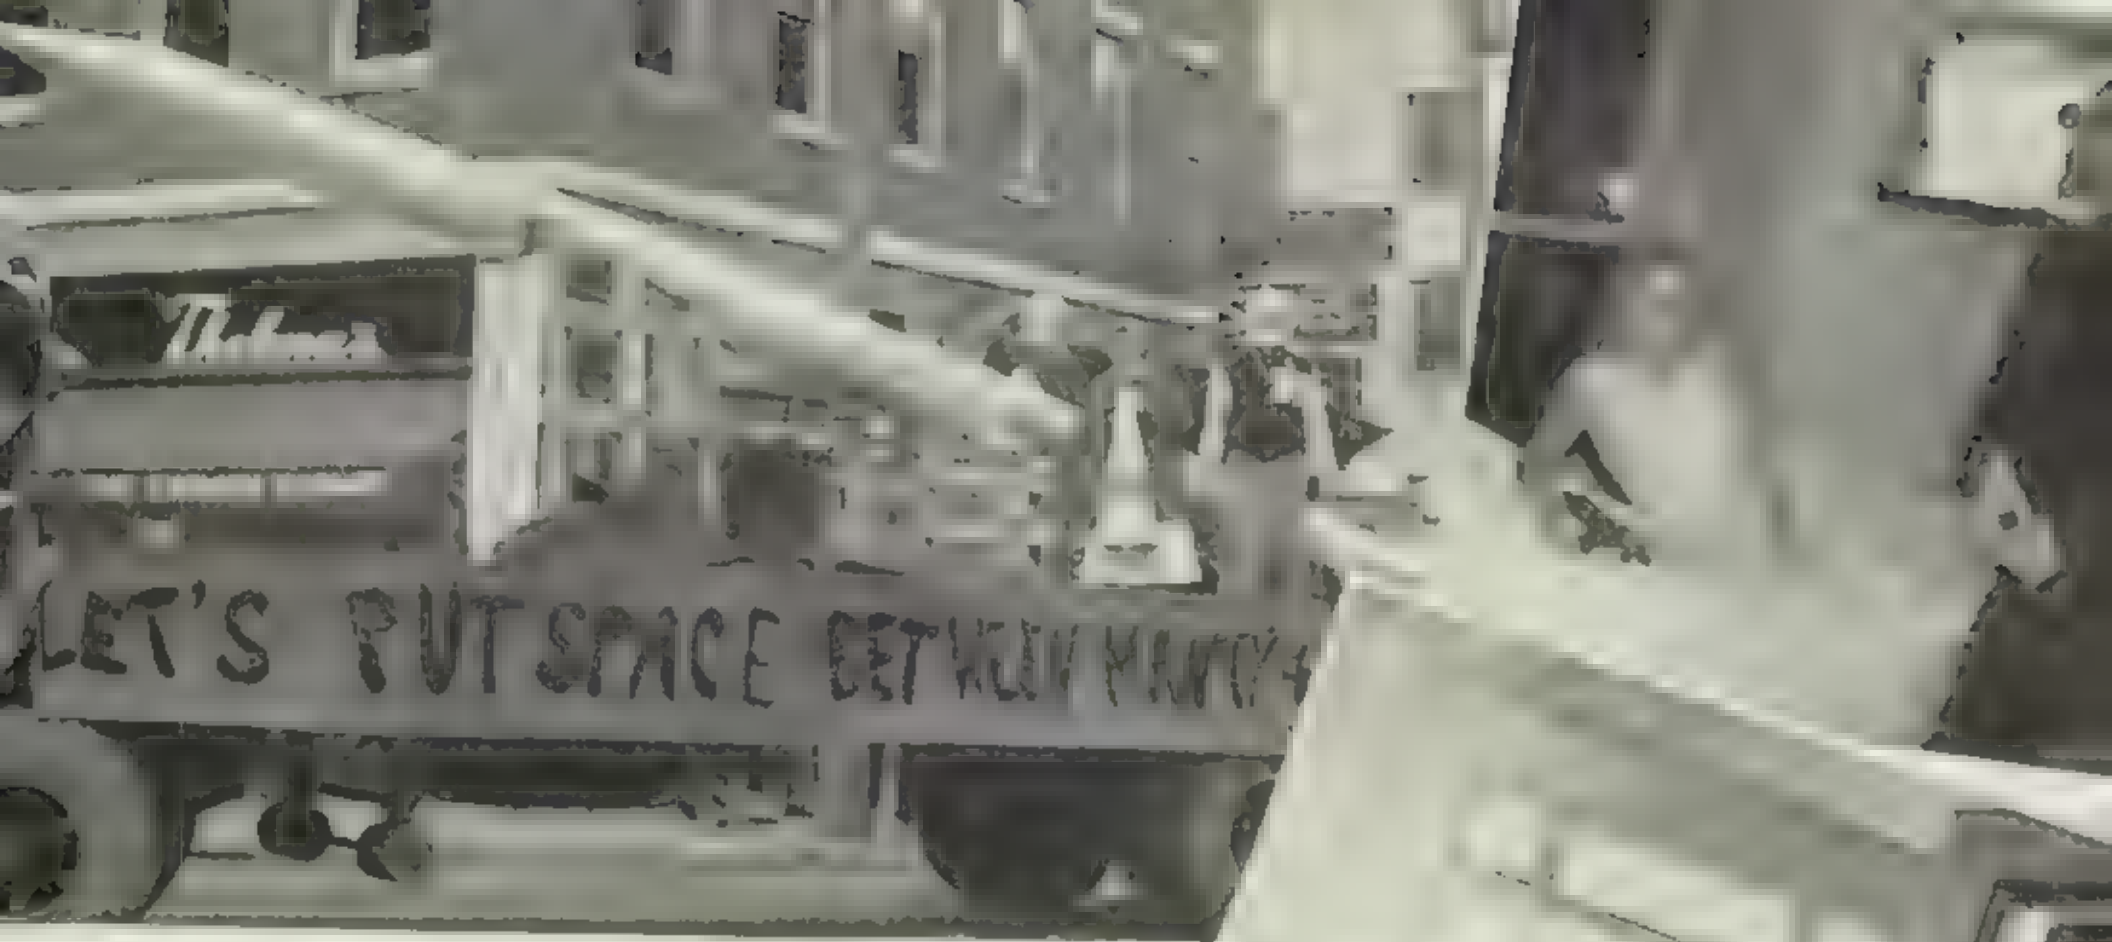

In the post-game traffic, portions of the goal posts were seen protruding from car windows.

Fall Fascination" with its cornstalks, pumpkins, strawstuffed mannikins, and the music of Duke Janda brought the day to a perfect climax under the royal reign of Queen Barbara Vollendorf and King Alan Boeldt.

Coach John Jung had reason to enjoy this unexpected shower. His team had just defeated Hortonville 81-64, to capture the regional championship and insure a trip to Madison for the state tournament. Responsible for luring the unsuspecting coach into the shower were left to right, Dick Hall, Brian Eisner, Bill Hackbarth and Wayne Staudt. Careful pre-planning was evidenced by the fact that Mrs. Jung had another suit all ready for the proud Coach of the Year.

Noon hour is a favorite time of the day for these senior girls, as they discuss everything from world affairs to the latest fashions.

Shouts of "Anybody want to trade a sandwich for two chocolate chip cookies?" are frequently heard fifth hour in the cafeteria. This is also an opportune time to catch up on last minute assignments or just gaze out at Lake Michigan to help pass the time.

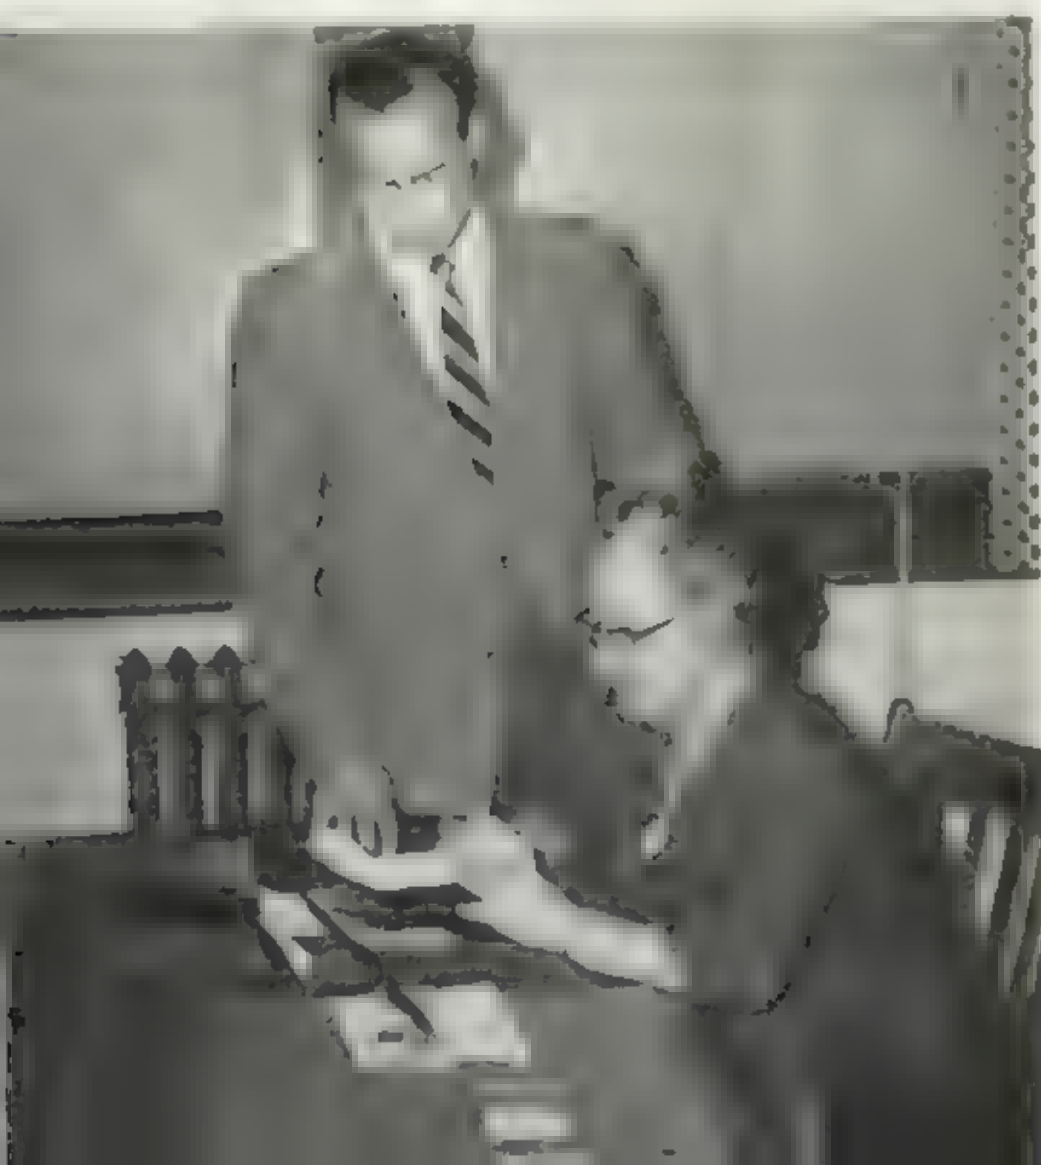

Rewarding Moments Captured

ADVISERS—Leading us through our senior year were our capable class advisers, Mr. Frank Granitz and Miss Jean Johnsrud.
